We Are Writers!

An introduction by Jacqueline Wilson, Children's Laureate 2005-7

So many children get in touch with me nowadays and tell me that they very much want to be writers. They send me their lovely stories and poems and ask if I can help get them published.

It's very hard to find a publisher even for adults. It's almost impossible if you're a child. It's therefore wonderful that Scholastic have started this brilliant writing project so that every child now has a chance of seeing their work properly published in a real, stylish book.

I would have given anything to have such a chance when I was young!
